Pafos, a small picturesque town is situated on the west coast of Cyprus and stretches from the beautiful Akamas peninsula in the north-west across to Aphrodites rock in the east. It is steeped in history having been the capital of Cyprus in certain ancient times and it attracts thousands of visitors every year. In Pafos there are innumerable sites of historical, religious and cultural interest and it is included in UNESCOs list of World Cultural Heritage sites. The Tombs of the Kings, the Medieval fort, the Odeon, the House of Dionysos, Aphrodites Rock and the Baths of Aphrodite as well as Saint Paulss pillar are only a few of these sites. Alternatively, the many sandy beaches, water parks, restaurants, clubs, taverns will keep you busy.

Bordered by a beautiful coastline, the Pafos area has also charming villages in its mountains with centuries-old monasteries nestling in them. The town centre however, is modern with trendy shops, an interesting traditional market and good museums. But what makes Pafos one of the top destinations in Cyprus is the warmth and friendliness of its people. The operation of an international airport with connections to many major cities of the world has made Pafos very accessible. Also a good new motor way links Pafos easily and safely to all the other towns.

Cyprus has recently been designated the 5th best relocation destination in the world by a report published by Knight Frank, a leading independent, global real estate consultancy firm. Ranked by key business and leisure indicators, Cyprus was the only European country alongside Switzerland to make it into the top five – ahead of London, Madrid, and Monaco. In addition to pleasant weather, the investment landscape in Cyprus is beneficial due to the island's well-qualified labour force, attractive taxation and a reliable transport and telecommunications system. Cyprus ranks highly because of its favourable tax regime for new residents, particularly high net worth individuals.Recent studies conducted by global immigration experts deemed the Cyprus Citizenship by Investment program among the "best in the world". Cyprus has a modern, free-market, service-based economy, with an effective and transparent regulatory and legal framework, giving international investors and businesses confidence to invest, grow and prosper.
